NORTHERN HALF OF CITY HELD BY AMERICANS

MacArthur's Men Release 3,700 Civilians Held In Nipponese Camps

Enemy Marines Carrying Out Demolition, But Face Certain Death

By United Press
American troops today controlled virtually all the northern half of Manila, where they liberated 3,700 imprisoned American and Allied civilians, and were rushing preparations to clean out the remainder of the Philippines capital south of the Pasig river.

Several thousand Japanese marines holding out in the southern section of the city were carrying out extensive demolitions, but they were doomed to death or surrender. Both the First Cavalry Division and the 37th Infantry Division were in the northern liberated sector and the 511th Paratroop Regiment of the 11th Airborne Division was closing in from the south. The paratroopers last were reported only 18 miles south of Manila.

MacArthur Returns
Gen. Douglas MacArthur, fulfilling his pledge of "I will return," was said to be waiting in the northern suburbs for the bridging of one last river before returning in triumph to the city.

The 3,700 internees were rescued Saturday night at the Santo Tomas university concentration camp by a mechanized flying column of the First Cavalry Division which had raced 100 miles in 36 hours.

Northern Manila suffered little damage and among the first places seized was the Malacanang palace, former residence of the American governors general and later the seat of the Quezon government. According to a CBS broadcast, President Sergio Osmeña and Resident Commissioner Gen. Carlos P. Romulo landed at a Luzon airport from Washington yesterday, and were preparing to join MacArthur in the return to Manila.

New Invasion

A Japanese Domel broadcast reported that American troops carried out another invasion of the Philippines. It said 3,000 Americans with more than 10 tanks, landed Jan. 18 on Kolo Island, largest of the Sulu group midway between Mindanao and Borneo.

The Santo Tomas reception of American troops was delirious.

A grenade hurled from the Jap guardhouse at the entrance to the prison camp delayed the vanguard until tanks were brought up under the orders of Maj. James Gearhart, Santa Fe, N. M., a ranger.

Superforts Kindle At Least 24 Fires At Kobe, Japan's Greatest Port

21ST BOMBER COMMAND, GUAM, Feb. 5—Superfortresses kindled at least 34 fires in Kobe, Japan's greatest seaport, in their first raid on that key target Sunday, reconnaissance photographs revealed.

Tokyo reported that single Superfortresses flew over Kobe soon after midnight and again about 4:30 a. m. Sunday, Japanese time. A broadcast said one plane dropped bombs and indicated the second did also when it said that there was "absolutely no damage in both cases."

Many of the conflagrations appeared to be spreading toward the heart of Kobe, sixth largest city of the Japanese homeland, 21st Bomber Command officers said.

Twelve large fires were left burning in the most congested area of the city near the Osaka bay waterfront, most of them along the edge of the Mitsubishi heavy industries plant.

Fourteen other fires were raging on the northwest edge of the city, and the wind was blowing them directly toward the center of Kobe.

Six fires were burning around a large industrial plant in the center of Kobe, and two more fires were burning in another section of the waterfront area.

The threatened industrial plant, not identified immediately, covered 1,820,000 square feet with a roof of 890,000 square feet.

Japan's most important railway and main national highway run through Kobe, and key industrial plants, such as steel, railway equipment, machinery, rubber and ordinance were closely integrated with the city's transportation activities.

The raid may have dislocated Japan's shipbuilding and ship repair program, already severely strained by increasing losses at sea to American planes, submarines and surface craft.

Approximately 100 Superfortresses participated in the raid and shot down three intercepting Japanese fighters, probably destroying 10 more and damaging 29 others. None of the Superfortresses was lost to enemy action.

(A Japanese broadcast admitted that wharves and port facilities at Kobe were bombed and said three Japanese fighters had been lost in aerial combat. At least six Superfortresses were shot down and 30 damaged, the broadcast claimed.)

Academy Makes "Going My Way" Eligible For Seven Awards

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 5 — The business of cooperation can be overdone, as witness this story told today by Lt. Gen. Alexander Vandegrift, Marine corps commandant:

"An Australian unit was scheduled to take over the ground defense of an American base. And the Australians, in their cooperative way, taught their men how to drive on the right-hand side of the road. This, of course, was just the opposite from their own system."

"They worked long and hard to learn the American system, but when they reached our base we had the world's worst traffic problem. For we, anticipating their arrival, had changed our driving system from right-hand to left-hand."

Fitzgerald and Crosby, who also was nominated for the "Oscar" for best actor, played the roles of two Catholic priests in "Going My Way."

The picture also was nominated as best movie of the year, the best written screen play and the best original motion picture story. Its director, Leo McCarey, was nominated for achievement in directing and the tune "Swinging on A Star" was nominated best original song.

Approximately 9,000 members of the film industry will participate in final balloting Feb. 10 to select

SENATE BILL AIMS AT POWER OF ROOSEVELT

Byrd And Butler Propose Sharp Curb On Setting Up Corporations

CONGRESS CRITICISED

Administration Accused Of Ulterior Motives In Organizations

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5—Sens. Harry F. Byrd, D., Va., and Hugh Butler, R., Neb., today revealed plans to introduce a bill to place sharp curbs on the President's power to create government corporations and to subject existing corporations to stringent congressional control.

Accusing the administration of setting up secret corporations with possibly "ulterior motives," Butler said the bill was based on the growing realization that congress "has been very careless in the past and is now ready to establish order in the corporations."

He said the proposal had bipartisan support and had "no connection with the George bill, Henry Wallace, Jesse Jones or any other individual." The George bill, passed by the senate, was designed to divorce federal loan operation from the commerce department in a move to keep them out of Wallace's hands in event he is confirmed as secretary of commerce.

Byrd Sees Backing

Byrd said one phase of the proposed new measure had been approved by the senate when it wrote into the George bill his amendment to place the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and other corporations under jurisdiction of the general accounting office for auditing.

In addition, he said, the new measure would specify that no corporation may be created by any federal agency "except by direct congressional action or pursuant to an act of congress specifically authorizing such corporation."

The RFC itself was created by an act of congress, but many of its subsidiaries — Defense Plant Corp., Defense Supplies, Corp., and War Damage Corp., etc. — were set up by the RFC itself under its broad powers.

Many Corporations

Many other existing corporations have sprung up through executive orders issued by President Roosevelt. The proposed Byrd-Butler bill was regarded primarily an attempt to restrict Mr. Roosevelt's corporation-creating activities.

Byrd said he had been protesting the lack of control over government

YANK MISSES JUNGLE NOISES, SLEEPS IN ZOO

CHICAGO, Feb. 5—Pfc. Floyd Robertson had been bothered with insomnia since his return from the South Pacific, so he went over to Brookfield zoo to get a little sleep.

When the superintendent was making the rounds of the parrot house, he came upon a soldier stretched out on a bench fast asleep. Later, Robertson, enroute to his home in Akron, O., on a 30-day leave after service in New Guinea, admitted it was the first good night's sleep he'd had since he came back to the states. "I miss the chatter of parrots and cockatoos," he told the startled zoo keeper.

"I guess I've got so used to the jungle noises that I'm finding it hard to go to sleep without them."

Weekend rain made roads in the country slipperier than at any previous time. Engineer Henry T. McCrady reported Monday. Cinder crews worked Sunday and were continuing their efforts Monday to make roads passable. Some equipment is being used to help township officials clear sideroads which have been closed for weeks. Large snow drifts were reported in Darby, Monroe and Scioto townships.

Efforts were being made to get all roads open so that pupils may get to school Tuesday.

Temperatures climbed slowly over the weekend. Sunday's high was 38 with 26 low reported Monday. A trace of precipitation was recorded.

FILIPINOS IN U. S. CELEBRATE MANILA RETURN

By United Press

Jubilant Filipinos in the United States paused in their rejoicing today to give thanks for the liberation of Manila.

Filipino leaders in Washington asked all their countrymen to join in prayer at noon today.

There were smiles on the faces of the dark skinned islanders where ever they met. They stood in clusters on New York street corners reading newspapers and listening to radio loudspeakers.

In San Francisco, Capt. Mariano Sulit, now retired, who once served under Gen. Douglas MacArthur said the entry of American troops into the island capital "is a full demonstration that the people who have suffered strife and sacrifice in building a land of freedom, cannot long be oppressed."

"We have always had faith in the United States," said Sulit, who is the head of the local Filipino colony.

"We have always had faith in General MacArthur. He has returned to live forever in the hearts of a grateful nation," Sulit said.

Gearhart led his men into the 55-acre university grounds, warning them to hold their fire and not endanger the lives of the internees. Creeping along the buildings for what seemed an eternity the troops reached the main building where the windows were filled with excited faces.

Troops entered the building and were mobbed. The women kissed them and then these thin, starved people lifted them on their shoulders.

The Americans suffered terribly since last June when the Japanese forbade them to purchase food from the outside. Conditions have been especially bad in the last two months. The ration has not been more than 700 calories a day.

The 37th (Ohio) infantry division entered Manila from the north at 6:30 a. m. yesterday and by early afternoon was within a few hundred yards of a junction with the first cavalry units at Santo Tomas.

The infantrymen overran the Grace park airfield in the northern suburbs of Manila. Though pitted by American bombs, it was expected to be repaired quickly. At least one artillery observation plane already has landed there.

Both the First Cavalry and 37th divisions met only sniper and machine-gun fire in their advances into the capital, but fierce fighting was expected when they attempt to force the Pasig to clean out the remainder of the city.

Tough Job Ahead

"It may be a hell of a job," one high officer said. "It may be several days before we have the city cleaned out, but the Japs have no chance now."

The Japanese garrison was doomed to death or surrender. Its escape to the south already had been cut off by the 51st paratroop regiment of the 11th airborne division, which seized Tagaytay ridge and city 30 miles below the capital Saturday morning.

By Saturday night, the paratroops were only 18 miles south of Manila and advancing against light opposition.

The 11th corps, moving toward Manila bay from the west coast of Luzon, was believed on the point of sealing off the Bataan peninsula.

The First cavalry and 37th divisions found northern Manila little damaged, though several fires were burning in the area. Great clouds of smoke from the area south of the Pasig river, however, cast a huge pall over the capital.

First observation indicated the Japanese for the present were confining their demolitions below the Pasig to bridges, warehouses, supply dumps, docks and other similar installation and not indulging in blind destruction.

DANIEL E. MYERS, 75, DIES IN CITY HOME

Daniel E. Myers, 75, died at 10 a. m. Monday in his home, 164 Fairview avenue.

He was born in Walnut township, the son of William and Mary Myers.

Surviving are one son, George T. Myers, 507 South Court street; four daughters, Mrs. Roy Purcell, 123 Mingo street, Mrs. Frank Conkle, 159 Logan street, Miss Eliza Myers, 216 North Washington street, Mrs. Lawrence Styrer, 614 Clinton street; 11 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Funeral will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday in the Defenbaugh chapel with burial in Reber Hill cemetery. Friends may call at the chapel Wednesday evening.

BERLIN FEARS PARATROOPERS

"For 24 hours the city has been in a state of alert against a possible airborne landing to take advantage of the chaotic conditions," a Stockholm dispatch to the London Daily Mail said last night.

Civilian refugees and eastward-bound troops were said to be hopelessly jammed up at the city's main railway stations, and one Swedish account said German army deserters and foreign workers were terrorizing parts of the capital.

The first real break in Berlin's morale apparently was caused by the terrible American daylight raid Saturday when 1,000 U. S. Eighth Air Force bombers literally tore the heart out of the city with a 2,500-ton bombing assault.

Reconnaissance photographs taken during and immediately after the raid disclosed that scores of bomb hits were made in the center of the city, blanketing the areas occupied by the German air and propaganda ministries, the war office, chancellery, gestapo headquarters, and other government buildings. In addition, the gas works and five big railway stations were hit, touching off spreading fires that covered a section one mile wide and two miles long.

Billowing clouds of smoke and flame were reported still rising two miles over the city late Sunday, more than 24 hours after the attack.

Swedish sources variously estimated Berlin's casualties in the raid at 12,000 to 20,000 people, many of them said to have been refugees caught in the open around a railroad station.

There appeared little doubt that the Americans and British air forces would return again and again to repeat the attack until Berlin has capitulated, and that certainty was reported adding to the terror inside the beleaguered capital.

The Nazi leaders' plight was complicated further yesterday by a simultaneous call from Moscow and the U. S. Army Radio for a military uprising against Adolf Hitler and his party overlords.

Both Allied broadcasts urged the German army to surrender now and avert further bloodshed and the Moscow proclamation, read by Col. Gen. Walter von Seydlitz, head of the Union of German Officers, added the grim warning that this was Germany's last chance.

"If you miss this last opportunity, the peace will be even harder than it would be now," Seydlitz said.

PAUL J. WHITE IN HOSPITAL WITH WOUNDS

Private First Class Paul J. White has been wounded in action in the Philippines, according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mack White, Circleville Route 1. He told his parents that he had suffered wounds from three pieces of shell fragments, two in the fleshy part of his arm and one in his back, and that he would always carry the piece in his back.

Mr. and Mrs. White have three other sons in service: Sergeant Vernon Furness, who is with the U. S. Army Air Force in Belgium; Private John Marvin White, Infantry, in training at Fort Robinson, Ark.; Carl Weldon White, S 2/c, U. S. Navy, Great Lakes, Ill. Another son, Warren G. White, has passed his examinations and is ready for induction.

The psychological thriller "Gaslight" also was nominated as best picture of the year, and its stars, Ingrid Bergman, Charles Boyer, and Angela Lansbury were named as best actress, best actor and best supporting actress, respectively.

Swedish Miss Bergman was nudged out of the award last year by newcomer Jennifer Jones, who was mentioned this year as a candidate for supporting honors for her role in "Since You Went Away," nominated as one of the best pictures of the year.

Claudette Colbert, one-time "Oscar" winner, was nominated for a second for her starring role in the same film. Monty Wooley was nominated for supporting honors.

Other contestants for picture of the year were "Double Indemnity," starring Barbara Stanwyck as a cold-blooded murderess, who was nominated for what would be her first award as top actress, and "Wilson," whose star, Alexander Knox, was nominated as top actor.

Two-time Oscar winner Bette Davis was nominated for her starring role in "Mr. Skeffington" and Greer Garson, for her role in "Mrs. Parkington."

Carry Grant, who never has won an Oscar, was cited for his work in "None But the Lonely Heart," and Ethel Barrymore was nominated for her supporting role in the same picture.

Also named for supporting honors were Hume Cronyn for "The Seventh Cross," Clifton Webb in "Laura," Aline MacMahon in "Dragon Seed" and Agnes Moorehead in "Mrs. Parkington."

Nominations for directing achievement went to McCarey, Billy Wilder for "Double Indemnity," Otto Preminger for "Laura," Alfred Hitchcock for "Lifeboat," and Henry King for "Wilson."

The film "Meet Me In St. Louis" and "Long Ago and Far Away" from "Cover Girl" were among 12 nominees for best original song of the year.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5—A bitter senate battle was brewing today over President Roosevelt's nomination of Aubrey Williams to be head of the Rural Electrification Agency.

The Senate agricultural committee set tomorrow for the start of open hearings on the nomination with Republican members and at least one powerful Democrat ready to attack the former head of the National Youth Administration.

Sen. Kenneth McKellar, D-Tenn., said he was opposed to Williams' ideas.

Sen. Harlan J. Bushfield, R.-S. D., said he intended to take "two of three hours" to oppose Williams by quoting from the nominee's writings and speeches over the last 10 years.

Sen. George A. Aiken, R-Vt., however, will support Williams. Aiken said that as governor of Vermont, he did business with Williams and "never had the slightest difficulty with him."

"I know of no reason why he should not be confirmed," he said.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5—The Navy tipped off the nation's inventors today that it is the market for some new products—such things as a better non-skid shoe, a successful method of welding light gauge aluminum or a container that can be dropped from a plane without parachutes.

Sen. Kenneth McKellar, D-Tenn., said he was opposed to Williams' ideas.

The Navy wants its non-slip shoe sole for use on an oily, steel deck that sometimes leans as much as 17 degrees. But it must not injure the feet, should be non-sparking and reasonably long-wearing.

The parachute-less container must be shockproof and could be pneumatic—cushioned, but the cushions should inflate themselves from a carbon dioxide bottle after leaving the plane. And it should be cheap enough to be thrown away after being used once.

HONEYMOON ENDS

FALA'S honeymoon sent the presidential Scottie to Walter Reed hospital for treatment of a bite inflicted by "his blue-blooded lady love." Pet of President Roosevelt, Fala had been a patient at the veterinarian school for a few days, but has been sent home. Mrs. Roosevelt had told a group of veterans touring the White House recently that Fala was in the country. "We hope he's having a wedding." (International)

NAZIS PATTERN HER LONELY LIFE

A GERMAN ATROCITY IN THE TOWN of Bande, Belgium, separated a young woman from her husband and created this dramatic scene. The wife, unable to control her grief, drops to her knees and kisses the casket containing the remains of her husband during the burial of 34 victims of a Nazi shooting. According to British official statement, the young men, all between the ages of 17 and 21, were shot down in cold blood after they were forced to work at slave labor during Nazi occupation of the town. WEEP FOR MOTHER SLAIN BY DAD

MICHAEL OGLIGORE, JR., 2, left, and his sister, Christine, weep for their slain mother. The tragedy was discovered when their father, Michael Ogligore, 30, an honorably discharged soldier, walked into a Chicago, Ill., police station with his two children tucked under his arms. He deposited them on the desk before Sgt. Maurice Begner and said he had just beaten his wife. Police went to the home and found the dead body of Mrs. Ogligore, an expectant mother, lying on the floor. (International Soundphoto)

WAR DODGERS

IT has been shocking to learn that 18,000 American soldiers are reported as "A. W. O. L." There is nothing funny at all about this dereliction. It is hard to see, or to condone, anything of the kind in the present war. Widespread scuttling of American citizens, on a vital job for their country, is a very shameful thing. The army newspaper, Stars and Stripes, comments in these vigorous terms.

"A bitter fact can go on record—that there are 18,000 American soldiers who haven't the faintest idea what this war is about, who seemingly know nothing about its causes and care less about its outcome, who make it a business to murder their pals by engaging in black market skull-duggery, who deny the great overwhelming mass of informed, thinking, loyal Americans the amount of food and fuel they need to finish their jobs."

Can it be that our nation really needs a new birth of loyalty and patriotism? If it isn't that, the trouble must be due to incredible stupidity and ignorance. In either case, there is obviously a job to be done in this country itself, to win the war here at home along with the wars abroad. The life and future of our nation depend on doing it better.

DOWN BELOW

IT is sad to see Argentina following the Hitler gang. We are blessed with good neighbors all the way from the North Pole down through Central America, the Canal zone and the bulk of South America; but our cherished faith in good-neighborhood all the way to Tierra del Fuego was too good to be true.

There is now a long poisonous strip southward from Bolivia and Brazil, with Chile on its western flank naturally absorbing some of the poison. It seems to have developed not only as a thrust against the United States, and a profitable Nazi enterprise, but as a possible refuge in case the Nazis should fall short of their desires in Europe.

That poison strip will have to be dealt with in the course of the present war, or shortly thereafter. Otherwise it might eventually spread its poison to most of South and Central America. The people of those vast and potentially rich countries are mostly good friends of ours, but except for Brazil they may lack power for self-defense. There is a job cut out for us now in this hemisphere which we cannot postpone much longer.

George Bill Passage to Pave Way for Wallace?

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—After the greatest show on Capitol Hill since the midget sat on the lap of J. P. Morgan, political observers are certain that Congress will pass the George bill and then the Senate will confirm ex-Vice President Henry A. Wallace as secretary of commerce.

The legislation, introduced by Senator Walter George (D.) of Georgia, shears away from the commerce department control over the government's multi-billion-dollar lending agencies.

These were transferred to commerce by Congress when towering Jesse Jones became secretary several years ago. Wallace, to make a place for whom President Roosevelt "fired" Jones from the cabinet, would inherit the dictatorship over the world's greatest banking operation.

But the Senate commerce committee has approved the George bill and the Senate and House are almost certain to follow suit in the next few days. That puts the shaggy-browed Wallace definitely "out" in his prospective role as "caliph of world finance."

Should the George bill fail of passage (a remote chance, indeed), Wallace might not be confirmed by the Senate for

UP AND DOWN BROADWAY

By JACK GAVER
(Submitting for Mallon)

NEW YORK, Feb. 5—People who see the play, "A Bell For Adano," based on John Hershey's novel of the same name, come away from it wondering why the Mexican-born actress known as Margo, who has had one of the most unusual careers in the American theatre, is content to play the role of Tina. True, it is the only female part of any consequence, but even so it is pretty small tamales to what she has been accustomed to doing.

"Mostly it is because I think it is a fine play and I believe so strongly in what it has to say," Margo explained in her hotel suite, where she is taking it easy after a bout with strep throat. "But it was a bigger part to start with. I campaigned from the beginning to have my best and longest scene cut from the play."

Such action is so rare that I asked for a repeat just to be certain that I heard correctly.

"The scene was one in which Tina described the death of her fiance Grigiro," Margo explained. "By itself it was a good one but I felt that it didn't fit with the rest of the play. It was all about someone who had never been seen by the audience and it was second hand information because Tina had not seen him die. We used it for the first few performances out of town and then it was dropped as I had wanted all along."

Margo has one problem connected with the play. She has to keep her hair a golden color to fit the part of the Sicilian girl who turns herself into a blonde as the only means at her disposal of being different than the other women of the village of Adano. Despite her Latin blood Margo is naturally on the blonde side, but not sufficiently to satisfy the purposes of the play. The touchups are a nuisance.

This business of expecting Margo to play nothing but the most important roles dates practically from the beginning of her career as an actress. She has lived in the United States since she was three, being raised in Los Angeles under the imposing name of Maria Marguerita Guadalupe Bolado Y Castilla. She took dancing lessons at an early age and was working at it by the time she was 10. She worked with the then little known orchestra of her uncle by marriage, Xavier Cugat, and accepted an engagement to dance at the Waldorf Astoria here only on condition that Cugat also be hired.

At 16 she left Cugat, who was going abroad, because she had decided to become an actress. She starved for a while and then sought a part in a film being produced in New York by Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur. They merely gave her the leading female role, that of a mature discarded mistress. A few other pictures followed and then producer Guthrie McClintic suddenly sought her out for "Winter's Eve." In her first stage role she was the leading lady.

Other top parts followed in "The Masque of Kings," "The Outward Room," and "The World We Make," to say nothing of several movies.

"One thing that I like about the part of Tina," she said, "is that I don't lose anything. It seems that always before I have had to lose my life or my mind or something. It's a relief to stay alive and sane through three acts."

program might have a repressive effect on wages.

• IF YOU'RE THINKING of getting that living room furniture re-upholstered, or buying new draperies, you'd better move fast. The supply of the fabrics is getting short—and will not be replenished for a considerable time.

Rugs will be tighter, too, become more and more scarce as rug looms are converted to the cotton duck program.

• AN UNKNOWN MOTORIST proved that anything can—and does—happen in war-time Washington. The driver, aiding sorely pressed transportation in the capital, offered a ride the other day to several government workers on their way home from the office.

Elated at their good fortune, the federal workers hopped in the car. To their amazement, the driver pulled out a "guest book" explaining as he busily collected their autographs, that he always had his "guests" sign up—adding that he refused to take "no" for an answer.

• MEMBERS OF CONGRESS want more money for representing the folk back home. All they get nowadays is $10,000 a year. How much do they want? Well, it varies.

Rep. Emanuel Cellier (D.) of New York says $12,500 a year will do the job. But that's not enough for Rep. Carl Vinson (D.) of Georgia, who says $15,000 is his minimum requirement. And Rep. Adolf J. Sabath (D.) of Illinois went farther—he'd have to have a $2,500 tax exemption for the solons.

• THE NAVY, FOR THE FIRST TIME since the war began, lifts the curtain on some of the armament secrets of its mighty, new ships.

The most modern battleship class, the department says, packs a terrific wallop with nine 16-inch guns in triple mount, 20 five-inch double-purpose guns in twin mounts and many smaller anti-aircraft weapons.

Heavy cruisers, like the Baltimore, carry nine eight-inch guns in threes, 12 five-inch ack-acks and many smaller types.

Destroyer fire power remains a closely guarded Navy secret.

DIET AND HEALTH

KELOIDS

By Dr. Herman N. Bundesen
President, Chicago Board of Health

When a wound heals, a scar forms. Occasionally, there may be an overgrowth of scar tissue, called a keloid. Keloids are disfiguring and mar the appearance, particularly when they develop on the face.

Doctor Wallace Marshall of Alabama has a method of treating wounds which he believes will aid in the prevention of keloid formation. He noted that in using a certain liver extract for treating patients with pimples, marked improvement occurred, due to the action of the liver extract in constricting blood vessels. In treating these patients he noted that those who had keloids were improved, due to the escape of fluids from the scars—this escape being brought about by the action of liver extract. He also noted that the application of cold compresses, as well as the use of a firm bandage pressed against the wound, produces less tendency for keloid formation. Thus, dressings on wounds should not be held in place merely with loose adhesive tape, but should be firmly fastened on.

Burns often are followed by keloid formation. In treating burns, Doctor Marshall uses a specially prepared ointment which does not stick to the skin, and over the ointment he uses a pressure bandage. In skin grafting, edema of the tissues, that is, a collection of fluid in the tissues, is likely to be produced, and the formation of large keloids or scars may then result.

Those with keloids may find the treatment suggested by Doctor Marshall worth trying. There is no danger in it, and if it fails to bring any benefit other methods may be employed. Often a keloid may be cut away and the new scar which forms may be smaller than the first one. Treatment with X-ray or radium often is of no value in this condition.

The scars produced by plastic operations may also be treated in the same way as the scars which form as a result of pimples, that is, by injections of liver extract.

A HEART CONDITION

Is it serious if the nerves of the heart are affected? What does it mean? Would work hurt a person with this condition? J. G. R.

ANSWER

The heart nerves which regulate the heart beat may at times be damaged by infections of the heart. It is not clear what disorder is indicated by your description. It would be advisable in this condition to have an electrocardiogram made to determine the extent of the damage to the heart. Whether or not the condition is serious and would prevent the person from working would depend on the extent of the injury.

"Routine police stuff. Bogart was well known in British Columbia. Well-liked, for that matter. Served in the last war with the Canadians. Got to be a captain. He was well fixed. Owned some good mines. Nobody has any complete information about his dough—which is the status of most wealthy guys. He's supposed to have found one deposit—long ago—that made him a fortune. But he worked it himself—exhausted it himself, possibly—because nobody knows whether that strike is included in his present properties or not. Those were sourdough days—and Bogart wasn't talking any more than the others. He volunteered for this war and they wouldn't take him. Came Aggie did not reply. He had a feeling that, if there were human bones in the coupé which Hank Bogart had driven from Seattle to the outskirts of Indian Stones, certain persons in that colony were going to find themselves in a horrid sweat. The thought gave him a moment of detached and somewhat sadistic amusement: a few human bones in the car of the man nobody wished to discuss ought to elicit the whole truth about him.

They walked under the red pines. Captain Wickman pulled open the coupé's rumpled door. The bones were on the floor. Aggie bent over and the trooper waited intently.

"Veal," Aggie said presently. "Calf, that is." He picked up one of them. A little meat clung to it—waterlogged and pallid. "Here's the mark of a butcher's cleaver. This end—was sawed. And here—I think—" He smiled slightly. "Wes, make a note that Mr. Bogart had a dog—medium-sized—" He stopped talking. His smile vanished. He saw the look in his own eyes, reflected in the eyes of the officer. "Yeah. Calder was bitten by a dog that size. Size of a fox—as Jack said the other night." A memory flashed into his mind. "What color is the mutt the chef owns—say around eleven. Found nobody at Sarah's—pinned up his card, and reached Calder's after Gannon had turned in."

"All colors. Brindle—mostly."

Aggie dropped the veal bone back on the car floor. He wiped his fingers delicately on a bandanna. "See here, Wes. I'd forgotten this. Kind of thing you do forget. I saw a fox—at the crack of dawn—the night Calder was killed. Black—one or silver. I thought it was a dog, at first. I was sure it was—and I can't seem to recall why. I wouldn't make such a mistake once in a thousand times—" He broke off. The state trooper's face was urgent with the wish to speak.

"Bogart" Aggie arrived— and he eventually went to see Calder. Probably tried Waite after Sarah. Hung around. He knew the crowd would be here because they always arrived—every year—on the twentieth. So Bogart drove in at Calder's. I wish I'd done more looking at tire tracks the night he found Calder! Too much rain, since. Anyhow—Bogart went in—and began to catch up with what had happened to his old friends in the last thirty-six years—"

"Long as that, eh?"

Wes nodded. "He went out—in 1905. They told me that much. He was about twenty-six or so, at the time. He'd be over sixty now—and not showing it. AMOS 'N' ANDY SING

Somebody has whispered to Amos 'n' Andy that a beautiful dollar can be picked up in the singing racket. So, when the gravel-voiced duo pay their postponed visit to "Everything for the Boys," Tuesday they figure on giving Maestro Dick Haymes a spot of competition, for they're coming up singing.

WAR OF WORDS

Don't be fooled by the war of words between Fibber McGee and Doc Gamble. Chances are they'll wind up purring like a couple of kittens when Fibber McGee and Molly switch on the mikes at 7:30 Wistful Vista, Tuesday. Jim and Marian Jordan are the beloved McGees, and Arthur Q. Bryan is heard as tongue-lashing Doc Gamble.

JANE WITHERS GUEST

Jane Withers, popular star of the movies and more recently seen on the stage, visits Paula Stone on her program, Tuesday. Miss Withers, who has been touring in the revue, "Glad To See You," departs soon for overseas where she will entertain troops under the auspices of the USO.

RADIO NEWS NOTES

In terms of money, little 10-year-old Bobby Riggio, infantile paralysis victim who sang on "Truth or Consequences" recently, becomes one of the highest-priced singers of history. His single rendition of "Over the Rainbow" has to date brought over one million dimes pouring into the "Truth or Consequences" office for the March of Dimes campaign . . . or, stacked up, a pile three times as high as the Empire State Building.

Guy Lombardo visited a night club for the third time in 15 years last Monday, when he acted as chaperone for the couples on the "Blind Date" program at the Stork Club in New York. Like most personalities in the entertainment field, Lombardo is usually so busy working while others make merry that his own leisure is spent out-of-doors, either on the golf course or, in peace time, on his speed boats.

Paul Lavalle's "Highways In Melody" program, heard Friday night, will feature a "family" of six of America's leading singing stars, who will alternate on the program. The stars are Vivian della

No less than three major film companies are after the screen rights to the Andrews Sisters Show heard on Sundays. Idea is to camera it along the same production lines as "Duffy's Tavern" in which celebrities by the carload drop in for a visit and a brief specialty. Gabby Hayes, heard on the program as a foil for the guest stars, would also get a prominent part in the picture.

Orson Welles' reading of "The Happy Prince" tied with Bing Crosby's singing, which the pair did recently on radio's "Hall of Fame" program, brought them so many requests for repeats that they're recording it on records for general sale.

Plans are being made now for Summer replacements for top radio shows . . . Fred Allen's return to the air with his own show seems to be set for the Fall, according to agency executives.

City Wide Paper and Tin Can Collection Set for Wednesday

KIWANIS CLUB'S CAMPAIGN FIRST SINCE SUMMER

Proceeds To Be Used In Aiding Underprivileged Boys And Girls

First city-wide scrap paper collection and the first tin can collection since last summer will be staged in Circleville Wednesday afternoon.

Kiwanis club is sponsoring the scrap collection. Proceeds from the drive will be used to further activities of the Kiwanis Underprivileged child committee, which has as its project sponsorship of the county children's home.

Circleville residents are asked to put paper and tin cans out at the curb not later than noon. It will be impossible to call back for places missed, the committee in charge states, and cooperation of all in putting scrap out will make the drive a success.

Dan McClain, chairman of the Pickaway county salvage committee, said Monday that scrap paper continues No. 1 on the list of critical materials needed. Paper supplies are very low and waste paper must be used to provide the material for boxes badly needed to ship food, medicine, clothing and ammunition to service men in all parts of the world.

Residents are asked to tie newspapers and magazines in bundles so that they will not scatter before trucks arrive to pick them up. Loose paper should be packed in boxes. Tin cans must be placed in containers, separate from paper. They should be placed in boxes or sacks and placed at the curbs with the paper.

Cans should be prepared in the same manner they have in the past. Both ends should be cut from the cans, paper labels removed, cans washed carefully, both ends placed inside the can, then the can flattened. Cans will be sent by truck to Columbus to be sent to detaining plants.

Kiwanians will report at 1 p.m. at the city building to make the collection.

CLARENCE BOWER AMONG YANKS FREED IN RAID

Mrs. Nellie Bower, of Mt. Sterling and Columbus, is rejoicing over the rescue of her son, Staff Sergeant Clarence Bower, 27, by the Americans who removed Bower with the 512 other Americans from a Jap prison camp on Luzon. Mr. and Mrs. Jess Streitenberger, of near Washington C. H., are awaiting news of their son, Private Elmer S. Streitenberger, who was captured at Corregidor and has been held prisoner by the Japs since that time. Streitenberger is believed to be in another Jap prison camp either on Luzon or in Japan proper.

Mr. and Mrs. Streitenberger received cards from their son, written eight months ago, saying that he was in Jap Prison Camp No. 1, on Luzon.

Sgt. Bower, among 13 Ohioans who were released from the Jap prison camp in the Commando raid, enlisted when he lived at Mt. Sterling. His mother received first word from friends who had read news reports of her son's rescue. She had received three prisoner of war cards from her son two weeks ago.

Sgt. Bower has a brother, Lieutenant Leon Bower, in the South Pacific and a stepbrother, Colonel Ralph E. Bower, in Belgium. Another brother, John, resides in Columbus. His father died several years ago.

CLARENCE W. WILLOUGHBY GETS MEDICAL DISCHARGE

Clarence W. Willoughby, who served two and one half years in the Pacific, has been given a medical discharge by the Army.

Willoughby volunteered for duty February 6, 1941. He served as a gun crewman with the 140th field artillery in the New Georgia and north Solomons campaigns.

He is entitled to wear the American Defense medal, good conduct medal, Asiatic-Pacific theatre ribbon and Bronze Star.

He was discharged after his hearing was affected by sun blasts.

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

ONE MINUTE PULPIT
Be merciful unto me, O God, be merciful unto me, for my soul trusteth in thee; yea, in the shadow of thy wings will I make my refuge, until these calamities be overpast. —Psalm 57:1.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Stambaugh, of Washington C. H., have gone to Rochester, Minn., to visit their daughter, Miss Loraine Stambaugh, who submitted to a serious spinal operation at the Mayo Clinic. The operation was an unusually serious one and Mr. and Mrs. Stambaugh will remain with their daughter for several days. The Stambaugh family resided in Circleville until Mr. Stambaugh was appointed city manager for Washington, C. H.

Miss Florence Roberts, who had been a medical patient in Berger hospital, has been removed to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Penn, Pickaway township.

Pomona Grange has postponed its meeting planned for Saturday at Commercial Point with Scioto Grange as host, until March 17. The postponement was made because of the scarcity of fuel and the condition of the roads.

Monday, February 12th will be the last day that discounts will be permitted on payment of the Electric bills. The Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric office will be closed Saturday afternoon, February 10th. —ad-

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Morgan, 154 West Water street, are parents of a son born Saturday in Berger hospital.

Mrs. Carl Wetherell, Amanda Route 2, is a medical patient in Berger hospital, admitted Sunday.

Mrs. Roy S. Palmer was released Sunday from Berger hospital and returned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Thompson, Circleville Route 2. Her baby was in Children's Hospital, Columbus.

Mrs. John Imler, Jr., and baby son, John III, were removed Sunday from Berger hospital to the family home, 1302 South Pickaway street.

Mrs. Dwight Grubb and baby son, released Saturday from Berger hospital, were removed to their home, Circleville Route 4.

The W. S. C. S. of the Salem Methodist church will postpone its meeting planned for February 8 until February 22, due to bad weather and icy roads.

HAPPY ENDING

GARY, Ind.—The honesty of a Gary woman provided Mrs. Elizabeth Zorich with a happy ending tale. Discovering that her purse was missing, Mrs. Zorich advertised in the local paper. A few hours later a telephone call told her a woman had found the purse and would return it intact with the $90.

Steve Petrunak Home After Helping Build Ledo Road Into China

Pfc. Stephen T. (Steve) Petrunak is back in Circleville after two years in the China-Burma-India theatre of operations and a trip around the world.

Although it is Winter now in India, where he was a couple of weeks ago, he says Winter there is nothing like the cold weather we have here. In Winter it is warm in the daytime, but at night fires are necessary to keep warm.

"Steve" has spent most of his time in the CBI area on the Ledo road. He is a member of an engineers unit which is building the vital supply line over which materials are sent into China. He served as a messenger for his outfit.

Road building in India and Burma is different from any seen in this part of the world. In the United States road builders dig to find a solid base on which to build, but in the part of the world where "Steve" built roads they do it differently. Starting with the mud, engineers build on top of it to provide a firm base. Bamboo, logs, gravel and other materials are piled on top of the base. Great amounts of calcium chloride are used to help make the road firm.

The road is now open all the way to China. Some of it is in good condition, but there are stretches of red clay and corduroy road. Most of the labor is supplied by the natives. Chinese, Hindus, and other natives do the manual labor.

"Steve" entered the Army April 20, 1942, and two years ago left the West Coast for Burma, India and China. When his rotation furlough came up he left northern India by plane, flew across Asia, Africa and the Atlantic ocean to land in Washington D. C. From there he came by train and bus to Circleville.

He is staying at the home of Paul Valentine, Ringgold Pike. After 21 days here he will report to Miami Beach, Fla., for reassignment.

A AWOL soldier, apprehended Saturday afternoon by the sheriff, deputies and members of the Sheriff's Auxiliary, was being held for military authorities Monday.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Deputies Vern Pontious and Clarence Maxson enlisted the aid of 10 members of the auxiliary when John H. Davis, 19, of Route 2, Williamsport, fled when the officers approached his home. The youth, AWOL from Camp Atterbury, Ind., ran about three miles across country and hid in buildings on the John H. Dunlap Sr. farm.

Search of the buildings revealed the youth hiding under hay in a manger in a barn, Sheriff Radcliff said.

MYKRANTZ TAKES FIRST FLOOR OF CRIST BUILDING

Changes in the windows and other parts of the store will be made. Mr. Crist said that Mykrantz officials had stated all new fixtures would be installed in the store, with the exception of the fountain. New fountains can not be bought at the present.

The building has been empty since the Crist department store closed two years ago.

Mykrantz has operated a drug store in its present Court street location, at the rear of the new location for about 15 years. Mykrantz officials have signed a 10-year lease for the larger store room. The new room will provide about three times as much space as the present location.
